

Recommended Course of Study

First Year

Fall Semester

UCCP 1101.H01: Freshman Seminar I

Spring Semester (The Foundation Semester)

UCCP 1102.H01: Freshman Seminar II

PHIL 2302.H01: Honors Introduction to Logic

ENGL 3363.H01: Honors Rhetoric

Second Year

Fall Semester (The Cornerstone Semester)

HONR 2101: Sophomore Seminar I

PHIL 3340.H01: Honors Professional Ethics

Spring Semester (The Keystone Semester)

HONR 2102: Sophomore Seminar II

Third Year

Fall Semester (The Capstone Semester)

HONR 3101: Junior Seminar I

ENGL 3361.H01: Honors Strategies and Genres of Advanced Writing

Spring Semester

HONR 3102: Junior Seminar II

Fourth Year

Fall Semester

HONR 4101: Senior Seminar I

Spring Semester

HONR 4102: Senior Seminar II

Required Courses

ENGL 3363.H01: Honors Rhetoric

3cr

A study of the historical and theoretical development of rhetoric within the works of principal thinkers in the classical period, the Enlightenment, and the contemporary period. The analysis of rhetorical concepts in their relation to civic, cultural, political, and pedagogical developments and the construction of knowledge.

ENGL 3361.H01: Honors Strategies and Genres of Advanced Writing

3cr

Practice in techniques and tactics of the sophisticated writer. Focus on rhetorical strategies that succeed in specific discourse situations, both academic and non-academic.

PHIL 2303.H01: Honors Introduction to Logic

3cr

Basic principles and techniques used in understanding, constructing, and evaluating arguments. Topics covered may include formal methods of analyzing arguments, informal fallacies, scientific reasoning, and moral arguments.

PHIL 3340.H01: Honors Professional Ethics

3cr

A rigorous and comprehensive study of theoretical and applied ethics with an emphasis on the application of ethical theory to clarify, explain, and resolve real-world ethical dilemmas. Satisfies the philosophy component of the University core curriculum.

UCCP 1101.H01 & 1102.H02: Freshman Seminar

1 sem. hr. x 2 sem.

A seminar covering basic study skills, time-management skills, self-discipline issues, course problems as they arise, and discussions on integrative essays and books. Replaces the first year seminar component of the University core curriculum.

HONR 2101 & 2102: Sophomore Seminar

1 sem. hr. x 2 sem.

A seminar devoted to reading and discussing important works in various fields which are combined, pending funding, with field-trips to lectures, presentations, museums, and demonstrations.

HONR 3101 & 3102: Junior Seminar

1 sem. hr. x 2 sem.

A seminar built on refining skills in analysis and developing research topics for the Project of Excellence, with a special emphasis the second semester on application for graduate and professional school as appropriate.

HONR 4101 & 4102: Senior Seminar

1 sem. hr. x 2 sem.

A seminar devoted to the balanced execution of projects of excellence, including peer draft review, group study sessions, mock presentations, and research analysis as appropriate.